

Holmwood Consulting Limited

“In Brief”

Holmwood Consulting Limited (HCL) is a Business Advisory & Training company providing strategic services to the energy industry, primarily in the area of natural gas and LNG but also serving the electricity and environmental sectors.

Our Principal and Associate Consultants have many years of industry experience and have been involved with or witnessed most of the changes in the global energy market at first hand. We can, therefore, effectively bring international experience and translate it into being applicable for local conditions.

Key services provided typically include:

- Market Studies
- Market Liberalisation and Company Unbundling support
- Natural Gas Logistics – pipelines and storage
- LNG Developments and Markets
- Global Energy Markets and Trading
- Business Consulting
- Project Scoping and IT System Solutions advice
- In-house training and Executive Briefing
- Public training courses

Holmwood Consulting Limited's wide range of experience has been gained through operational and management positions in UK and international companies and from providing consultancy support in both developed and emerging markets across the world. Our understanding and coverage, through our own dedicated staff and selected Associates, allows us to offer high quality services over the whole range of strategic, market and commercial needs of the energy business. We have worked with clients that have included oil and gas majors, power companies, energy institutes, energy trading organisations, independents, gas transportation, LNG and storage companies.
